The Spots on the Sun.

Providence Journal.

The sun-spot cycle is in full action. The huge, blazing surface of the sun is dotted with spots in all directions. They through the solar domain, sometimes appearing singly, then in groups, and then in rows.

A large spot surrounded by smaller ones seems to be the favorite form of manifestation. Some of them are large enough to be seen with a spyglass, and some so small as to require a telescope of high power to bring them into view. We can form little idea of their immense size. The whole territory of the United States is smaller in dimensions than many of the sun spots now visible, and some of them are larger than our whole globe. No astronomer has ever discovered the mysterious law that controls their appearance, or the part they really play in the affairs of the solar system. It is well established, however, that the occurrence of heat before the appearance of the spots is about eleven years; that they are connected with the meteorological condition of the earth, that when they appear in great numbers, as at present, seasons of excessive heat follow in their train, and they are usually attended with grand displays of northern lights. Professor Piazzi Smyth announces the reappearance of the aurora in Scottish skies after an absence of several years, and predicts a season of excessive heat before the occurrence of the spots. The cyclones and tornadoes in the West seem to give proof of unusual elemental disturbance. Under these circumstances there is nothing to do but to watch and wait. Ages of observation may enable the astronomer of the future to unravel the mystery that surrounds the solar spot-cycle, but there is little probability that the problem will be solved for many generations to come. Intelligent observers can take notes as well as trained astronomers. There are three phenomena to be especially anticipated, the occurrence of severe storms, the approach of a great heat wave and the coming of aurora in the northern skies.

The Source of Disease.

"The Way It Is Done," is the title of an interesting little book by Mrs.

Warren, the well known writer of several valuable books on domestic economy. Here is an extract which might be read with interest by sufferers from rheumatism:

"I can't get up stairs, I be so crippled."

"Just try it a step at a time and rest. And what do you sleep in, sheets or blankets?"

"Sheets, of course; what else? I have got blankets over me, and a good thick counterpane over that."

"I thought so; put away the sheets and the counterpane, and sleep in blankets, under and over, and no counterpane at all. The sheets and counterpane do a great deal of mischief."

"Well, now, how can that be?"

"The cotton keeps the sour heat and perspiration from the body in the bed, so you breathe the poisoned air all night, summer and winter, and that poisoned air makes your rheumatism ten times worse.

If you were in blankets, they would pass from one to the other, but in cotton, it absorbs it—I had better say socks into it—it there it remains cold or hot, or clammy."

"That may be right, sure enough, for I do perspire so with pain that one might wring the sheets sometimes."

A True Lady.

Gail Hamilton says: Wildness is a thing which girls cannot afford.

Delicacy is a thing which cannot be lost or found. No art can restore the grape its bloom. Familiarity, without confidence, without regard, is destructive to all that makes woman exalting and ennobling. It is the first duty of a woman to be a lady. Good breeding is good sense. Bad manners is a woman's immorality. A woman's manners are her life. Ignorance of etiquette is the result of circumstances. All can be condoned and not banish men or women from the amenities of their kind. But self-possession, un-shrinking and aggressive coarseness of demeanor may be reckoned as a State's Prison offense, and certainly merits that mild form of restraint called imprisonment for life. It is a shame for women to be lectured on their manners. It is a bitter
